

Celery

Think further than a Waldorf salad, with virtually no calories, celery is an excellent snack, and is also an essential ingredient of many dishes such as soups and casseroles.

A 100 g of celery contains only 7 calories.

There are some indications from animal studies that celery lowers blood pressure and blood cholesterol levels.

Oriental medicine has long used celery to lower blood pressure.